Background

Overall, the API for the elementary district went down slightly (-2.2) while the secondary district went up modestly (7.3).

State and similar school rankings, however, went sharply down in the elementary district and overall stayed the same in the secondary district. The following graphs and charts present relevant data for our schools.

Please note, the state of California takes over one year to get this data back to us, therefore, data for this report is from tests taken over a year ago (2007/08 STAR testing).
