Agenda Item #7
California Education Code re “Naylor Act”
From Craig Price, District Legal Counsel

The Naylor Act (Education Code sections 17485-17500; copies attached) requires school districts, who propose to lease or sell land used for outdoor recreation and open space land suited for recreational purposes, to offer to lease or sell a portion of the land at discount to either a city or county, whichever has jurisdiction. Under these provisions, as applied to the Tatum and Hidden Valley sites, the agency having jurisdiction could acquire up to 30% of either site for 25% fair market value if they determine to do so. There have been preliminary discussions with city and county staff about this being unlikely to occur if the District was seeking to develop workforce housing.

The Naylor Act also permits the District to exempt one unused site when it is seeking the immediate expansion of an existing school by 50% or more. Because the elementary district is proposing to expand the Santa Barbara Community Academy, this would qualify for exemption of one site. Because the loss of up to 30% of either of the two sites would have significant ramifications on the potential for workforce housing development, the Committee may wish to include a recommendation to the Board of Education that any available steps be taken to avoid this result. Possible language for such a recommendation has been included.

It is uncertain whether the Naylor Act provisions would be applicable because, among other things, there are provisions allowing agencies who are developing low and moderate income housing under lease to a nonprofit corporation to forego many disposition requirements which otherwise apply. However, the Committee may wish to include such a recommendation in order to minimize any likelihood of this result.

During a recent Board of Education meeting which involved a discussion of Naylor Act related issues, a question arose concerning whether the Real Property District Advisory Committee had been asked to consider this question.

Agenda Item #10
